

To whom it may concern;

In 2010 my wife and I found ourselves in a situation where we needed the assistance of a professional contractor to inspect and possibly replace our hail damaged roof. We had no idea where to look especially after the news headlines about fraud and scammers. We feel fortunate to have contacted John Frazier, he was the right person for our job.

John was courteous, punctual and competent. John inspected our roof and suggested that we contact our insurance agent to confirm his findings, that we needed a new roof. John met with the insurance adjustor, pointing out areas of concern.

John explained our cost up front and how our claim would be handled with our insurance company. He explained various types of roofing and how we might save money in the future by upgrading our new roof at minimal additional costs which could be offset by future insurance savings.

John met all the time commitments he made to us. His personnel cleaned up their work site each day and were very polite. We have recommended John to our friends and neighbors. If we had to have a new roof again in the future we would certainly feel comfortable calling John.
